

A graphic divided into two vertical panels. The left panel has a dark background with the text "Italian food" in a white, elegant script, with three stars below it. The right panel has a dark background with the text "Italian - American food" in a white, elegant script. Between the two panels is the text "VS" in a bold, white, sans-serif font. The entire graphic is surrounded by illustrations of various Italian dishes, including a pizza, spaghetti, a salad, a glass of red wine, a glass of white wine, and various cheeses and breads.

You can't go into a restaurant right now so you're cooking your own food. How well does your "Italian" food measure up to Italy's? Watch the video and let's see...

How do you stack up?

In this video, watch six people from Italy--an older woman, an older man (a Sicilian spoiled by his wife who cooks for him), a middle-aged man, a young chef, a young woman, and a young man--as they are offered "Italian" food—American style, familiar dishes we all know.

See what they think about our popular "Italian-American" food. They express themselves as only the Italians can!

This should make you laugh out loud or, at the very least, make you smile. Enjoy!
